

Building Belonging Across Differences

Who are the people you want to bring together? What differences might they have? What might be their common purpose?

How might you build an environment in which to build belonging across differences? What guiding norms or expectations might you set?

What structured practices or rituals could you use to build belonging? How might each individual's experience or beliefs contribute to building belonging?

What barriers might you encounter? How can you leverage the strengths of the group to overcome them?
